IAA LIST SERVER PROBLEMS

The IAA experienced a problem with one of its list servers on October 31, 2000, which resulted in the receipt of many email messages by a number of actuaries. As communicated to association correspondents on November 1, 2000, immediate measures were taken to mitigate the problem and an investigation was launched with the IAA Internet service provider. The investigation determined that the list server was properly created by the IAA Secretariat. In addition, it was determined that the list server program itself contained functionality problems but that the faults in the program could not have been entirely responsible for all the problems experienced on October 31, 2000. As a result, the IAA Secretariat has decided to switch to a more reliable list server program using a dedicated server, which includes firewalls and virus protection. These new measures are expected to be in place by the end of January 2001. It should be noted that, even with these measures in place, the possibility will still exist that an email virus on the computer of a recipient of a message addressed to a list server could cause a series of email messages to be sent to other recipients on the list server which are also in the address book of the recipient.

CANCUN, MEXICO WILL BE THE VENUE OF THE INTERNATIONAL CONGRESS OF ACTUARIES (ICA 2002)

The crystal clear waters and white sand beaches of Cancun will be the background to the 27th International Congress of Actuaries (ICA), to be held during March 17-22, 2002 with the motto "A new millennium, A new challenge for actuaries".

The ICA 2002 represents a unique opportunity to meet actuaries from all over the world and to exchange ideas on how to tackle the current and future demands of the actuarial profession. Actuaries will be lodged at the new Moon Palace, where all sessions will take place. The Moon Palace is a new all-inclusive luxury hotel, right on the beach.

Delegates will have the option of participating in the whole one-week congress or in just one half, since the sessions have been organized in accordance with areas of specialization. The first half will include Health, Social Security and Non-Life subjects, while the second half will deal with Life, Pensions and Financial Risk.

There will be plenary and simultaneous sessions with a variety of formats such as panels, workshops and debates. Emphasis will be placed on stressing a practical approach to all presentations. Simultaneous translation to the ICA official languages (English, French, German and Spanish) will be provided in all plenary sessions and in most parallel ones.

Some of the Committees and member associations of the IAA will organize shared sessions. ASTIN, the Non- Life section of the IAA, will hold its 2002 Colloquium during the second half of the Congress. The other two sections, AFIR and IACA, will also sponsor sessions for their members. As well, several associations will hold their board meetings during the Congress, thus providing all participants with an opportunity to meet some of their world-renowned colleagues.

Actuaries can participate in the Congress by submitting papers to the Scientific Committee at scientific@ica2002.com or by attending as delegates. Instructions and more detailed information can be found in the Congress web page: www.ica2002.com.

A very important part of the scientific program will be the sessions devoted to the discussion of papers submitted by actuaries around the world on diverse subjects of interest. The list of session topics is available on the Congress web page www.ica2002.com.

The scientific program will be constantly updated and will be totally defined only when all papers have been submitted. Most of the sessions will be considered as part of the continuing education programs of the actuarial associations with a formal education program.

On the social and cultural side, there will be plenty of action. Details of the tours are available on the Congress web site www.ica2002.com.

The cost of the entire Congress week is US$1,320 per delegate, $670 per companion and $290 per child. The fee for a half-week event is $1,060 per delegate, while companions and children will pay $510 and $200 respectively. These fees are valid until March 31st, 2001. Higher fees will apply after this date so early registration is highly recommended.

The congress fee includes a welcome package, transactions in CD-ROM, welcome reception, opening and closing ceremonies, gala dinner, the Chichen Itzá tour and all meals and drinks in the hotel, including unlimited drinks at all hotel bars. Hotel rates are $120 per person in double occupancy and $200 for single occupancy.

To receive further information on this event, fill out and return one of the forms included in the recently mailed bulletin or download them from the Congress web page www.ica2002.com. All actuaries are encouraged to be part of ICA 2002 in Cancun. Remember that the international congress of actuaries takes place only once every four years!
