Washington D.C. Council and Committee Meetings

Audience: All

Tours

The American Academy of Actuaries will provide a “Locals Guide” brochure highlighting neighborhoods, restaurants, and activities that Academy staff and members have enjoyed in and around Washington D.C.

Several of the best museums in the world are located along the National Mall (the name for the landscaped promenade in the center of the city), and all of those that are part of the Smithsonian Institution are open without charge to visitors. Metro, the local subway system, reaches most of the neighborhoods and attractions and is easily accessible a few short steps from the Mayflower. The city has all the usual tour purveyors (e.g., hop on/off buses) offering general overviews of the many tourist attractions. Uber and Lyft are well used and readily available, as are several local bikeshare and scooter-hire options.

Our “Locals Guide” will provide a different perspective on D.C. neighborhoods and spots that may be off the beaten path. Come and experience D.C. like a local!

Casualty Actuarial Society Spring Meeting

The Casualty Actuarial Society welcomes all IAA Committee and Council delegates to attend the annual Spring Meeting of the CAS. Immediately following the upcoming IAA Committee and Council meetings, the CAS Spring Meeting will take place May 19-22 in New Orleans, Louisiana, a short airplane trip from Washington DC.

(More details on the numerous parallel sessions will be available later this month)

It will be a great experience to spend a few days meeting and networking with 1000 general insurance practitioners, and to enjoy a robust offering of very interesting and timely educational content. In addition, as you probably already know, New Orleans is a pretty great city to visit, and is particularly lovely in the springtime. If you wish to attend as a delegate, please follow the link above to get registration and hotel information. And please do let Bob Conger (bob.conger@casact.org) know if you plan to attend so that our team can welcome you.

Bob also is available to respond to any questions you may have, or to redirect you to a member of the CAS meeting planning team.
