

THE ACTUARY IN BANKING

The Working Group and ASSA, in collaboration with IACA and our colleagues in Mexico, are proud to present a seminar as part of the IAA Council and Committee meetings.

27 November 2018, 08:00 – 12:00
Sheraton Mexico City Maria Isabel Hotel

The demand for actuarial skills in banking has grown rapidly over the last few years. In 2016, the IAA established a Banking Working Group to identify and discuss opportunities and practices for actuaries working in the banking industry. In the same year, the Actuarial Society of South Africa (ASSA) introduced a Banking Fellowship examination for its members. The Working Group and ASSA, in collaboration with IACA and our colleagues in Mexico, are proud to present a seminar as part of the IAA Council and Committee meetings. The programme includes presentations on different ways to measure VaR and other portfolio risk measures used, the use of data analysis in banking, updates from member organisations and a panel discussion on questions raised by the audience.

Limited seating is available at CAD30 per delegate. Please visit https://www.actuaries.org/iaa/IAA/Events/Event_Display.aspx?EventKey=MEXICO2018 to register and secure your seat at this event.
